

Biography

Jeffrey Drusda received his BA in Biochemistry from East Stroudsburg University. Following this, he served in the offset printing industry, specializing in thermographic process and UV-cure stationery. Jeffrey transitioned to effect pigment manufacturing and technical applications, focusing on the plastics industry. Joining Chemours in 2018, he is currently a Technical Service Principal Scientist, AMS Plastics Market, for Chemours Titanium Technologies in Newark, Delaware.