

- Bio:

- Bruno Stortini is an economist & strong advocate for circularity, now representing and advancing the work of the Alliance to End Plastic Waste (AEPW). Prior to entering the sustainability realm, Bruno held several commercial roles in the plastics sector nurturing strategic relationships and global partnerships. This developed a strong understanding of the value of collaboration in achieving mutual goals, of which is critical to break the paradigm of linear supply chains and instead enable the creation of a self-sustaining plastics ecosystem.