

Dr. Joshua Lensbouer is a Senior Research Scientist at U.S. Silica who leads a range of application development initiatives for the company's pigment and functional filler product lines. He has degrees in both Chemistry and Biology from the University of Pittsburgh (B.S.) and Syracuse University (Ph.D.), and postdoctoral experience at Pennsylvania State University. Joshua has 13 years of experience working in the coatings industry.